

SPOUSE TOUR

Food Tour in Bangalore cooking classes teach the secrets of Indian cooking in a fun and informative way. These classes teach more than just learning to cook a few Indian dishes. In these cooking classes, you'll learn the very basics as well as some of more advanced cooking secrets and techniques which make Indian cuisine so rich and delicious. These cooking classes teach everything from simple chaat to advanced dishes like chicken tikka masala. The guests also receive a special gift hamper which contains some very special ingredients which are used in almost every Indian kitchen. These will help you enhance the taste of your own cooking too

Types of cooking classes offered:

Our aim is to provide the maximum possible amount of knowledge in shortest time. We don't believe in running classes according to a set schedule. But just to make things easier for people who are not very familiar with Indian food, we offer following different types of classes. Please note that, these are meant only as guidelines and the guests can pick and choose any dish that they'd like to learn to cook in any type of class. The number of dishes covered is limited only by time and expertise of guests.

Half day crash course in Indian cooking

Average duration: 3 hours

Features of every Indian cooking class:

- Stay with a typical Indian family. Cook and eat like a family member instead of a guest.
- Class guided by a professional chef as well as the family you are visiting.
- Emphasis on Indian vegetarian food.
- Small and exclusive groups.

- Transport including pickup and drop from hotel.

Later visit National Market that also includes the very famous Cottage industries

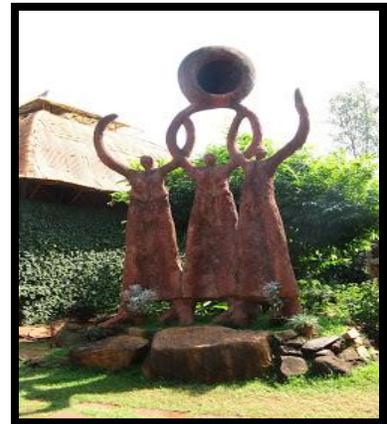

Emporium (CIE). National market near Majestic is Bangalore's go to grey market for clothes, accessories and tech goods – phones, handy cams, tablets and MP3 players.

Post Shopping visit Mehendi shop (Organic Mehendi Shop) – It is a ceremonial art which was originated from ancient India. But it is popular in several other countries also like Pakistan, Nepal, Bangladesh, Sudan, Morocco, and some other countries of Central Asia. Indian ladies are very fond of beautifying their hands with Mehendi during various occasion. Beside wedding ceremonies, Mehendi is also used in other auspicious occasions or festivals like Karva Chauth, Teej etc.

Later visit to Nrityagram which is a dance village located 30km northwest of Bangalore, at Hesaraghatta. It was established in the early 1990's to revive Indian Classical Dance. A winner of the rural architecture award, this unique experimental village is dedicated to the gurukula tradition of dance, music, choreography and painting. Under the auspices of well-known Odissi dancer, Protima Gauri, it offers the long-term study of classical dance and its allied subjects, such as choreography, philosophy, music, mythology and painting. The village is rustic in design, and blends with the bucolic surroundings. Near the village is the Hesaraghatta Lake, a manmade lake, which is a popular tourist spot. Dance school closed on Mondays and during students away for performance abroad.
